The total sales of stocks on 'Change at New York Saturday were only 53,613 shares. The market was irregular and unsettled on a very small volume of business, but became fairly steady toward the close. The good showing made by St. Paul in its annual report induced buying by London and the local traders which resulted in an advance of % per cent., of which only % was lost at the close. Burlington advanced % at the opening, receded %, recovered the loss and reacted %, closing unchanged on the day. Rock Island gained % and then, on rumors of a probable reduction in the dividend rate, declined ½, closing ½ above the lowest point touched. Sugar was most active of the list, but the sales reached only 8,600 shares. It ranged in prices from 105½ to 104%, closing ½ above the bottom figure, scoring a loss of ¾ per cent., compared with the final sale of Friday. The trading in the rest of the list was so light trading in the rest of the list was so light as to be almost devoid of interest alto-gether. On sales of one hundred shares each, Michigan Central declined 1% per cent., Louisville & New Albany preferred 21/4 per cent. and Minneapolis & St. Paul preferred 14. Advances were established of 4 in Wheeling & Lake Erie preferred and 1 per cent, in American Tobacco. The other changes were in fractions and pretty evenly divided between declines and advances. General Electric and Western Union are unchanged on the day. On the week the speculation has been erratic in its course, but ther have been no yiolent changes in the active list; the tendency has been downward, but the losses at the close of the week are not very heavy, some few of these shares showing a slight advance, St. Paul, Sugar and General Electric each gaining 4 per cent. The more important changes are: Declines—Pullman, 3¼: Distilling, 3½: Nickel-plate seconds preferred, 2½, and Louisville & New Albany preferred, 2¼. Advances—Central Pacific, 3 per cent.; Sugar preferred, 2½, and P. C. C. & St. L., 2.

The bond market has been firm throughout the day and advances have been recorded of 214 in Erie seconds extended and 1 in Georgia Pacific income fives trust recalpts; P., C., C. & St. L. four-and-a-halfs, series A, and St. P., M. & P. fives. LOCAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE. Trade of the Week an Improvement

Over Several Weeks Past.

In most lines merchants speak of trade in the week closing Sept. 8 as having been an improvement over either of several preceding weeks. Fluctuations in values have been fewer and a better feeling all round prevails. The week closes with eggs, poultry and butter all weak and lower prices indicated. In the vegetable line receipts are not so large and commission men are getting some better prices. Choice peaches and apples have been on the market the last few days and brought very fair prices, still not so good as at the corresponding period last year. Grocers had a good business all week, sugars firm and advancing and coffees easier. Dry-goods houses and millinery establishments had more business last week than in any week of the last three months, and the boot and shoe houses have been busier the last few days. In the local grain market it was an off week. Attendance on 'Change was not so large as for some time previous and the bidding tame. The week closes with track bids ruling as on Friday, except on wheat, which declines &c. track bids ranging as Wheat-No. 2 red, 494c; No. 3 red, 44%c; wagon wheat, 48c.

A SAD BRIDEGROOM.

My uncle came to a stop outside a stationer's shop in Oxford street. When I saw what had caught his attention I reproached myself for my thoughtlessness. "Come," I said, "tell me what you think of-of representative gov-rnment." "It's no good, George. You did the same thing at the cake shop. Do you think I never saw the cake shop? Since this affair was settled I think every shop I pass reminds me of it-even the gunsmith's. I never suspected before how entirely retail trade turned on marriage-except, perhaps, the second-hand book shops. The whole world seems on marrying.

"It's queer," said he, "that a little while ago the thing that worried me to the exclusion of everything else was the idea of being married, and now it is so near it's entirely the getting married that upsets me. I have forgotten the horrid consequences in the horror of the operation." "It's much the same," said I, "as at an

"Look at those cards." He waved his hand toward a neat array of silver and white pasteboard. "'Jemima Smith,' with an arrow through the Smith, and 'Podger' written above it, and on the opposite side 'Mr. and Mrs. John Podger.' That is where it has me, George."

We went on past a display of electroplate with a card about presents in the window, past a window full of white flowers, past a carriage builder's and a glove shop. "It's like death," said my uncle; "it turns up everywhere and is just the same for everybody. In the cake shop there are piles and piles of cakes, from little cakes to ten inches across up to cakes of three hundredweight or so; all just the same rich ungatable greasy stuff. just the same rich, uneatable, greasy stuff, and with just the same white sugar on the top of them. I suppose every day they pack off scores. It makes one think of marrying in swarms, like the gnats. I catch myself wondering sometimes if the run of people really are separate individuals, or only a kind of replica, without any tastes of their own. There are people who would rather not marry without one of those cakes, George. To me it seems to be almost the most asinine position a couple of adults can be in, to have to buy a stone or so of concentrated biliousness and cut it up, and send it round to other adults who would almost as soon eat arsenic. And why cake-infantile cake? Why not biscuits, or cigarettes, or chocolate? It seems to be playing the fool with a solemn occasion."

"You see, it is the custom to have cake." "Well, anyhow, I intend to break the "So did I, but I had it all the same." My uncle looked at me.
"You see," said I, "when a woman says you must do this or that-must have cake at a wedding, for instance-you must do it. It is not a case for argument. It is a kind of privilege they have-the categorical imperative. You will soon learn that." Evidently the question was open. "But why do they say you must?" "Other women tell them. They would despise any one dreadfully who did not have a really big cake-from that shop." "But why?"

"My dear uncle." said I, "you are going into matrimony. You do not show a proper "The cake," said my uncle, "is only a There is this trousseau business again. Why should a woman who is going to marry require a complete outfit of that sort. It seems to suggest-well, pre-nuptial things, at least, George. Then the costume. Why should a sane, healthy woman be covered up in white gauze like the confectionery in a shop window when the flies are about? And why-?" He was going on in quite an aggressive tone. "There isn't a why," I said, "for any of it." This sort of talk always irritates a married man, because it revives his own troubles. Surely, if a wife is worth having she is worth being ridiculous for. You ought to be joily glad you don't have to wear a fool's cap and paint your nose red. 'More precious than rubies'--'

'Don't!" he said. "It must be these tradesmen," he began bitterly, after an interval. "Some one must be responsible, and it's just their way. Do you know, George, I sometimes fancy that they have hypnotized womankind into the belief that all these uncomfortable things are absolutely necessary to a valid marriage-just as they have persuaded the landlady class that no house is complete without a big mirror over the fireplace and a bulgy sideboard. There is a very strong flavor of mesmeric suggestion about a woman's attitude toward these matters, considered in the light of her customary common sense. Do you know, George, I really believe there is a secret society of tradesmen, a kind of priesthood, who get hold of our womankind and muddle them up with all these fancies. It's a sort of white magic. Have you ever been in a draper's shop, George?"

"Never," I said. "I always wait out-"Have you ever read a ladies' newspa-"I didn't know," said I, "that there was any part to read. It's all advertisements; all the aricles are advertisements, all the paragraphs, the stories, the answers to correspondents-everything. "That's exactly what makes me think the tradesmen have hypnotized the sex. It may be they do it in those drapers' dens. A man spots that kind of thing at once and drops the paper. Women go on year after year, simply worshiping a paper hoarding of that kind, and doing patiently everything they are told to do therein. Anyhow, it is only in this way that I can account for all these expensive miseries of matrimony. I can't understand a woman in full possession of her faculties deliberately exasperating the man she has to live with -I suppose all men submit to it under protest-for all these stale and stereotyped antics. She must me magnetized."

"Mrs. Harborough-" he began.
"Of course, a widow!-I forgot," I said. But she seems so young, you know." "And putting aside the details." said my uncle, with a transient dash of cheerfulness at my mistake, "I object to the publicity of the whole thing. It's not nice to bring the street arab into the affair, to subject yourself to the impertinent congratulations and presents of every aspirant to your intimacy, to be patted on the back in the local newspapers as if you were going to do something clever. Confound them! It's not their affair. And I'm too old to be a blushing bridegroom. Then think, what am I to do, George, if that cad, Hagshot, sends me a present? "It would be like him if he did," I said.

"They are not stale to her," I said.

"I fancy he will." "I can't go and kick him," said my uncle. "Declined with thanks," I suggested, "owing to pressure of other matter." "You are getting shoppy, George," said my uncle, in as near an approach to a querulous tone as I have heard from him. the complacency of one whose troubles are over. "But it's a horrible nuisance, anyhow. Still, the world grows wiser, and the

WHEAT HELD UP BY GOOD BULL NEWS INDUSTRIOUSLY HANDLED.

Corn Gained 3-8e at the Close, Oats Advanced and Provisions Were Firm and at Better Prices.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8 .- The Board of Trade markets to-day were dull, but firm. Wheat was sustained by the talk of that grain for feed, and corn advanced on the expectation of a bullish government crop report. December wheat closed 1/3c higher, September corn %c higher and September oats %c higher. Provisions finished with modest ad-

The wheat market opened firm. Foreign markets were rather easier and receipts here and in the Northwest continued to show a tendency toward diminishing. Chicago received 244 cars. Minneapolis reported 382 and Duluth 176, or 558 in all, compared with 615 at both places a year ago. Bradstreet made the clearances of wheat and flour for the week 3,207,000 bu, against 3,-420,000 bu the week before. The clearances from the Atlantic ports for twenty-four hours amounted to 480,000 bu. The total of the primary market receipts were still in the aggregate, close to the one million bushel mark. Business was very light. The sustaining influences were the indications given by the light Northwestern receipts of a much lighter crop of spring wheat than many had calculated on, and of the confirmation coming to hand of the increasing use of winter wheat for feed. The opening prices of December was 57c, it advanced from that to 57%@57%c and closed at 57%c. Attention was drawn to the fact of the shipments of wheat at Chicago, Duluth and Toledo exceeding the receipts to-

The corn market was very ragged and irregular, but with an upward tendency for the most part and an improvement established at the close of about 1/2c per bu. The effect of the Russian barley importations had apparently exhausted itself, and it was altogether discredited in some quarters. the expectation of the government crop report, which will be issued on Monday. showing a further heavy deterioration in the condition since a month ago. September, which closed yesterday at 56%c, opened at from 56% to 56%c, advanced to 57%c and closed at 5/c bid. May started at 54%@55c, advanced to 55%c, reacted to 55%c and closed at 55%c. Receipts here to-day were 367 cars, and there were 347,000 inspected out of store. Business in the oats market was fairly active. There was a fair disposition to trade both ways, but sales were mostly scattered and local. Fluctuations were again influenced by corn. September ranged from 29% to 30% and ended at 30% bid. Provisions were strong on a moderate business. The revival of the bullish spirit of the grain markets helped prices somewhat, and hog reciepts, present and pros-pective, were light. The day's run was good, and for all next week 100,000 are the estimated arrivals. Compared with yesterday's closing prices for January delivery, the following advances occurred: Pork 5c, lard .07½c and ribs .05c. Freight-Rates to Buffalo, 1½c for wheat and 14c for corn. Estimates for Monday-Wheat, 275 cars; corn, 275 cars; oats, 200 cars; hogs, 24,000; hogs next week, 100,000.

Elsewhere. CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Cattle—Receipts were estimated at 1,000 head, making 72,551 for this week, against 67,959 for last week, 65,824 a year ago and 84,736 two years ago. This week's receipts are the largest of the year by far, and as nearly everybody had their orders filled, the thousand head here to-day was as many as was needed. Trade was slow and prices nominally steady. The supply consisted of about 500 natives and 500 Texas cattle.

The demand for hogs was reasonably active, and prices were strong for good to best grades. Nobody seemed to want the poorer kinds, and holders of such had to make concessions in order to unload. Few prime lots were included in the offerings and, while that sort is salable at $6.55@6.60, the major part sold below $6.35. The sheep and lamb markets were firm at $1@3.50 and $1.75@4.25, resepctively. The receipts were about 1,500 head, and for this week 52,300, against 52,352 last week and 64,549 for the corresponding week last year. Another Cuckoo Pecks at Carlisle, Harper's Weekly.

Here we cannot refrain from noticing the unfortunate circumstance that while President Cleveland is electrifying the country with his stirring appeals, his Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Carlisle, is engaged in a laborious effort to explain away a charge accusing him of having been in suspiciously confidential intercourse with the Sugar Trust. We are willing to put the most favorable construction upon what the Secre-tary has to say for himself, but the fact is undeniable that the public utterances of Mr. Carlisle, as well as the part he took in framing the sugar legislation in the Senate tariff bill, were uniformly far more calculated to help the interests of the Sugar Trust than to hurt them. At the moment when President Cleveland sounds his bugle note against the corrupt despotism of the trust, it is, to say the least, deplorable that we should see a Secretary of the Treasury at his side whose character it not high enough and whose position is not clear enough wholly to relieve him of the necessity of making any explanations concerning his fidelity to the aims of his chief. We fear Mr. Carlisle has ceased to add anything to the moral weight of the administration. In fact, the administration should not be exposed to the distrust which Mr. Carlisle has managed to arouse against himself.

Fishing with Cormorants in Ching. Join H. Stevenson, in Blue and Gray.

On the day following this seance we ascended a lovely little river. I am now about to tax the credulity of the average reader. I am free to say, had I heard of the occurrence I am about to relate, I am disposed to think I should tow it alongside rather than take it aboard. Readers, however, who have been in China will recognize it as the solid truth. We came across a large sampan, the thwarts of which were lined with cormorants. They each had a lanyard attached to one leg. They gazed constantly and intently into the water. They would dive overboard, sometimes singly, and again three or four at a time, and return almost invariably with fish in their bills. When any one returned without a fish he was beaten by the Chinaman who sat in the boat, or if he ate the fish he was beaten. The successful cormorants were occasionally rewarded by being given a small fish. It really struck me at the time as the
